

A Word From the Chair: See you in Philadelphia!

We are less than a month away from this year's conference in Philly. So much work and dedication happened behind the scenes, and I want to thank all the executive members of the History Division leadership. I especially want to thank our vice-chairs Brian Creech (program chair) and Melissa Greene-Blye (research chair) for organizing our panels and research competition.

continue »

History Division Programming at AEJMC 2024

For full program details, including detailed session descriptions, names of participants, and room locations, check out the AEJMC program online.

Wednesday, August 7

- Using the Tools of Digital Humanities in Journalism History and Media Research (History Division Workshop Session), 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.
- History Division Awards Gala, 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Pre-registration required.

Thursday, August 8

- In Our Own Backyard: How Press Portrayals Informed Public Perceptions of People and Issues (Refereed Research Paper Session, History Division), 10:30 a.m. to 12 p.m.
- The Future of Academic Publishing (Research Panel Session, History and Magazine Media Divisions), 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.
- Podcasts as Public Scholarship (PFR Panel Session, Magazine Media and History Divisions), 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Friday, August 9

- Notable Firsts Breaking Barriers and Challenging Racial Inequalities in Print and Broadcast (Refereed Research Paper Session, History Division), 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m.

- Scholar-to-Scholar (Poster) Refereed Research Paper Session, 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m.
- New York Times v. Sullivan in 2024: Its Impact of 60 Years on Free Speech in the US and Abroad (PFR Panel Session, Law and Policy and History Divisions), 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.
- Lest We Forget: History and Inclusivity are Fundamental (Teaching Panel Session, History Division and Commission on the Status of Minorities), 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.
- History Division Top Paper Refereed Research Paper Session, 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Saturday, August 10

- Back to the Future: Charting a Path Forward for Critical Political Economy in Media History (Theory Colloquium Panel Session, History Division), 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m.
- The Jinx C. Broussard Award for Excellence in Teaching of Media History (Teaching Panel Session, History Division), 10:30 a.m. to 12 p.m.
- Partisan Media and Its Roots in American Journalism (Community Journalism Interest Group and History Division), 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.
- Within the Without: How We View the Work We Do (Refereed Research Paper Session, History Division), 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Sunday, August 11

- The Politics of the Archive: From 1946 to the Trump Administration (Research Panel Session, History and International Communication Divisions), 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Research Q&A: Ford Risley and Ashley Walter

Ford is a distinguished professor in the Bellisario College of Communications at Penn State University. Ashley is an assistant professor in the Department of Communication at Saint Louis University. The two recently published the book How America Gets the News: A History of US Journalism (Rowman & Littlefield, 2024).

continue »

Member Q&A: Claire Rounkles

I am finishing up my dissertation at the University of Missouri, which I will defend in the Fall. In addition to finishing up my dissertation, I will start as an assistant professor at in the Department of Journalism and Strategic Media at the University of Memphis this Fall.

continue »

Digital Humanities Pre-Conference Workshop at AEJMC

The History Division is sponsoring a hands-on preconference workshop exploring the use of computer-based digital humanities tools for media history research and analysis. Attendees will learn how to access digital data sources at scale and use computerized data analysis tools like sentiment analysis, topic analysis and data visualization. The workshop is intended for researchers who do not have access to large number grad students or research budgets and do not have advanced computer skills themselves. The workshop will be held on August 7 from 1 PM to 5 PM. Cost is $10. Attendance is capped at 25. For more information contact Elliot King at eking@loyola.edu. Registration is available online.

2024 Winners of the Jinx C. Broussard Award for Excellence in Teaching of Media History Named by AEJMC History Division

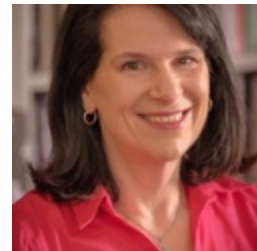

The History Division of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication (AEJMC) has selected A.J. Bauer, Erin Coyle, Michael Fuhlhage, and John Vilanova as the winners of this year's Jinx C. Broussard Award for Excellence in Teaching of Media History.

continue »

Beth Knobel Winner of the Diversity in Journalism History Research Award

Fordham University associate professor Beth Knobel has won the 2024 Diversity in Journalism History Research Award for her conference submission, "Breaking Barriers: Ed Bradley's Early Years in Radio."

continue »

Member News: Lisa Lenoir, Tom Mascaro

Lisa D. Lenoir (Indiana) received Indiana University's Presidential Arts and Humanities Fellows Program award to advance her research on the life and career of The Chicago Defender's Mattie Smith Colin. The fellows program supports IU faculty with promise to be national and international leaders in their discipline.

continue »

Introducing the incoming editorial staff of *Journalism History

Incoming Journalism History Editor Perry Parks is announcing the journal's new editorial staff members: Cristina Mislán, Joseph Jones, and Josie Vine.

Cristina Mislán will serve as Associate Editor. Mislán, an associate professor at the University of Missouri, has begun working with Parks on assessing and inviting reviewers for incoming submissions to our new editorial system, ScholarOne.

The Book Reviews Editor will be Joseph Jones, an assistant professor at West Virginia University. Jones has been deeply engaged in leadership and activity across several AEJMC divisions, including Media Ethics and Cultural and Critical Studies. He is closely attuned to emerging research and will foster a vibrant conversation around important new books in our field.

The Online Content/Essay Coordinator will be Josie Vine, a senior lecturer at RMIT University in Melbourne, Victoria, Australia. Vine is a longtime History Division member with two recent books on the cultural history of Australian journalism. She will provide a big boost in expanding the journal's international reach and sensibility.

The new Journalism History team's mutual interests and complementary backgrounds, experience, and expertise will serve the journal well. The staff officially starts in August.

CFP: Forgotten Journalists: Lived Experiences and Professional Identities in the Past

Abstracts are due on August 30 for an upcoming conference in Ghent, Belgium. The conference will examine the lives and work of lesser-known journalists whose careers shaped the industry and reported on some of the world's biggest news stories.

The organizers propose two different ways to decenter the history of journalism :

Finding forgotten or invisible journalists: Contributors can present cases of journalists who have been forgotten or have remained invisible in the studies about their field of expertise and form of journalism.

Rediscovering the forgotten journalistic activities of public figures: Many authors, politicians, activists and other public figures pursued prolific careers as journalists. The journalistic activities in their careers are often forgotten. The journalistic careers of plenty of prominent individuals remain to be re-evaluated. Studying these figures as journalists may both result in a more complete understanding of their careers and help to re-evaluate the role of journalism as an outlet of political and social activism.

Both established and early career scholars are encouraged to apply. Organizers intend to provide travel grants for two non-European, early career researchers. If you want to be considered for a travel grant, please state so when submitting your abstract.

More information is available online here.

Seeking Applicants for History Division Website Administrator

We're looking for applicants for our Website Administrator position. The administrator is responsible for updating the AEJMC History Division's website -

<https://mediahistorydivision.com> and helping the division migrate to the AEJMC Community Site. Training will be provided for AEJMC Community Site by the AEJMC Central Office. The Website Administrator is a part of the division's executive committee so the person must be an AEJMC member.

If interested, please contact Rachel Grant at rlgrant6@gmail.com.

Do you have news for the next issue?

Email Caitlin Cieslik-Miskimen at caitlinc@uidaho.edu

created by Flashissue
→ Try it free

Mailing address: AEJMC History Division, 234 Outlet Pointe Blvd., Ste. A, Columbia, SC, 29210-5667, US