

A Word from the Chair: The Necessity of DEI in the Classroom and Beyond

Discussions about the state of mass media and U.S. history are continually contested - socially and politically. This often results in the removal of marginalized and disenfranchised communities from history, continuing the legacy of inequality that those historically oppressed groups know all too well.

continue »

Call for Editor - Journalism History

The History Division of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication invites applications for editor of Journalism History. Adopted as the official journal of the History Division in 2018, Journalism History is well respected as the oldest peer-reviewed journal of mass media history in the United States.

continue »

Author Q&A: Jon Marshall

Clash: Presidents and the Press in Times of Crisis (Potomac Books, 2022) Describe the focus of your book.
Clash: Presidents and the Press in Times of Crisis examines the history of the shifting relationship between presidents and journalists from the founding of the United States until Joe Biden's inauguration in 2021.

continue »

Membership Q&A: Matt Cikovic

What is your current position and favorite class taught: I am a brand new teaching assistant professor at the Hubbard School of Journalism and Mass Communication. It's only my first semester here but my favorite class to teach so far has been multimedia storytelling.

continue »

Member News: Will Mari

Will Mari (LSU) won the Dr. Dimitrije Pivnick Award in Neuro and Psychiatric History, and with it conducted archival research at McGill University's Osler Library of the History of Medicine, in July 2023. While there, he was also an invited visiting researcher at the Département de communication at the Université de Montréal.

continue »

Journalism History Podcast Adds New Episodes on the Kennedys, the 1948 Presidential Election and other topics

The Journalism History Podcast added several new episodes this fall, bringing the total number of episodes produced to 146. As thoughts turn toward prepping classes for the spring semester (or toward long travel days for the holidays), check out the latest episodes here.

Do you have news for the next issue?

Email Caitlin Cieslik-Miskimen at caitlinc@uidaho.edu

created by Flashissue
→ Try it free

Mailing address: AEJMC History Division, 234 Outlet Pointe Blvd., Ste. A, Columbia, SC, 29210-5667, US